

Affective Societies

The Collaborative Research Center investigates the affective and emotional dynamics and the consequences of various spatial, social, and cultural mobilities and transformations of the modern world for individuals and different forms of human coexistence. Scholars from ten different disciplines in the humanities and the social sciences investigate these dynamics in 16 individual projects focussing on three main research areas: Actors, Repertoires, and Social Collectives.

The Workshop Inside Out: Affect(s) in Multi-Religious Secular Societies is organized by the projects Audience Emotions in Sports and Religion (Hubert Knoblauch, Meike Haken) and Feelings of Religious Belonging and the Rhetorics of Injury in Public Discourse and the Arts (Christian von Scheve, Anna Berg, Nur Yase-min Ural) within the Collaborative Research Center Affective Societies.
